WAR PRICES FOR MEAT

EXPLAINED BY WILSON

War prices for beef have apparently roused some observers to fighting pitch. Chicago market reports quoting steers at $11.00, the highest recorded at the Union Stock Yards since the civil war, happen to appear just at a time when the price of beef is a topic of lively tariff debate. Woodrow Wilson's address at Syracuse, at the state fair, sets the discussion going. The New York Commercial (Com.) thinks that meat prices make a particularly "pregnant illustration" of how the tariff works, because in this field "conditions are least complicated, can be more easily stripped from accessory facts to a few naked essentials, and the movement of these essentials more specifically traced." Apparently, this may be true without diminishing any of the heat of the debate over essential facts and figures. For while the Commercial accepts Governor Wilson's statements and statistics as proving "a clear-cut sheer case of tariff robbery, from the truth of which there is no appeal," the St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.) published in a great packing center, says that the governor misstated facts in the Syracuse speech, and "finding himself unable to throw the figures, he fouled them, by tripping."

The point of the democratic candidate's discourse that is most argued is this statement:

"The price of meat has gone up in the United States 30 and 40 per cent within ten years, and the price of American meat has not gone up a fraction of a cent a pound in the London markets. American meat is selling cheaper in England by 20 to 40 per cent than it is selling in the United States, and when gentlemen who are engaged in this monopoly tell me that it is because of the circumstances of local supply and demand, I ask them how it is that local supply and demand, how it is that economic laws change when you put the product on sail water and send it across."

Some of the protectionist editors vigorously challenge this. The Globe-Democrat, quoting the London Daily Telegraph as its authority, says that, for one example, in England during the past year American meats have advanced "from 15 to 20 per cent during the time in which the prices of all other meats in that market, domestic and imported, have been advancing." The St. Louis editor then contrasts other conditions.

"To meet such advances the working classes of England are not nearly as well prepared as are those of this country. The British Board of Trade has made plain admission of this fact in a comprehensive report of comparative wages and prices, leading to the conclusion, which is freely made, that the higher wages paid over here wipe out the difference in living cost and leave a balance in favor of our protected labor. The professor's foul disqualifies him for problem wrestling."

To the argument that an advance in prices is reported "all over the world," Governor Wilson replies:

"Yes, they have, and they have risen faster and higher in high-tariff countries than in low-tariff countries. This wall of the tariff enabled certain gentlemen to get behind it and to say: 'Now we are all of us together secure against foreign competition. Why cut one another's throats? Why not get together?'"

The meat-packers did get together, Governor Wilson relates, evaded the law and set prices as high as they pleased:

"I am not imagining this. It came out in the trial of the meat packers. There was a circular letter which, in the polite terms, suggested the appropriate prices for the various kinds of meat, and with a gentility quite unsurpassed in the history of business etiquette the suggestion was accepted. What law can prevent your accepting a suggestion? The tariff gave these men the chance to do the thing which has produced the high prices."

BAD ACCIDENT ON A TORPEDO BOAT

Lieut. Donald P. Morrison was killed and eight men injured by the explosion of the steam chest on the torpedo boat destroyer Walke Tuesday. The accident occurred near Brenton's Reef lightship off Newport, R. I., while the Walke was preparing for her second quarterly trial.

Among the wounded was Henry Lee Wilder, machinist mate, 28 years old, an ad native of Sparks, Nev. His father, Robert L. Wilder, lives at Orlando, Fla.

EXPERTS DIDN'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT IT

For the last dozen years, newspaper and magazine experts have been making predictions regarding the conduct and results of modern warfare, but most of their rules seem to have been broken by the fight between Turkey and Italy. Says the New York World:

The Turco-Italian war, which has now lasted one year, has broken many of the maxims of military writers. The assumption that modern war must be short, sharp, terrible and decisive, because of the perfection of armament, falls to the ground. Turkey cannot get at Italy on the water; Italy is pledged not to attack Turkey on the mainland; and the losses on both sides for the entire year probably not equalled those of Gettysburg alone.

The intolerable financial burden of war falls also to appear. Italian official estimates place the additional cost of the war above the peace budget of the two services at not more than half what we have paid for pensions in the year. Italy can go on two years without a foreign loan; Turkey has spent even more money.

War will neither crush nor cripple the vanquished. Peace, with the cessation of Tripoli, ought not to harm Turkey, to which the province is a dead weight, as the Philippines were to Spain. The automobile, tanks, desert tribes in "peace" may exhaust Italy far more than war is doing.

On the other hand, the humane belief that wars nowadays must be opposed by the solidarity of workmen, upon whom the weight of them most heavily falls, is disappointed. Italians of every party and of all ranks are swept away by a great wave of enthusiasm. The sectional jealousies of fifty years have vanished at all times. The comradeship of conflict and the inspiring thought of having Tripoli and Cyrenaica once more as the granary of Italy have unified Italy and made the war intensely popular.

CAMPAIGN COLLATERAL

The weather seems to have dampened democratic enthusiasm, but a few of the faithful are coming to the front. Mr. J. C. Pillars contributed a big solid coin to Mr. Gary, and Mr. C. R. Davis with $1 and Mr. H. P. Ferry with 50 cents joined the honor roll via the Star.

BLEASER'S CLAIMS ARE BEST

The South Carolina democratic executive committee, at its meeting in Columbia Tuesday, declared Cole L. Bleaser, the incumbent, the democratic nominee for governor. The committee, the sub-committee appointed to investigate the alleged frauds and irregularities in the primary of August 27, reported that it had not found proof of sufficient fraud or irregularity to alter the returns. On the face of the returns, Gov. Bleaser had a majority of about 3,000.

RAN HIS LAST RACE

David Bruce-Brown, wealthy young New York sportsman, lost his life, and his mechanic, Tony Scudalaris, was fatally injured as the result of an accident on the new Wauwatosa automobile race course at Milwaukee Tuesday afternoon, on the eve of the eighth running of the Vanderbilt cup race. The daring young driver died at Trinity hospital of hemorrhage of the brain three hours after the accident, having been found lying on the track unconscious for a few minutes.

Two men, who were active in the recent strike at Lawrence, Mass., and who were accused, probably "redolent" of murder, were placed on trial at Salem Monday morning. Whereupon their friends and associates, the working men and women of Lawrence went on a sympathetic strike of a day's duration in the course of which time they had several clashes with the police, with the result that a number were hurt on each side, but mostly, as usual, on the strikers' side. Most of those people are socialists; at least, the socialist papers and orators are all supporting them. They also advocate the cause and excuse the procedure of the people in and around Augusta, who have brought on the bloodiest strike in the history of Georgia and are now in open defiance of the law.

During this strike a number of the strikers or their sympathizers assaulted and nearly killed a strike breaker, who left his employers, and went over to the strikers on the promise that he would be taken care of. We would respectfully inquire of our socialist friends, Messrs. Jones, Schneider, et al., if this is a part of their peaceful socialist propaganda and what reason is there for it, and how much of it must we expect before we are redeemed and purified.

Along with several other southern papers, the Star prefers Roosevelt to Taft. The colonel has his faults, but he and his crowd have their faces set toward the sunrise, even if they are stumbling on the way, while Taft and his cohorts beckon us all backward toward the midnight.

A wicked writer in the New York Times suggests that since Colonel Roosevelt is the bull moose of this campaign, that Geo. W. Perkins is the dough (doe) moose of the same. George certainly seems to be putting up the dough.

The New York republicans have nominated Jeb Hedges for governor. Now, who in Sam Hill, ever heard of Hedges? On route to Ocala, having thought they were heading on the nomination of Straus when they chose Hedges.

We don't know how the school book law is working in other parts of the state. Certain it is that Ocala parents are finding the cost to be something fierce.

LOCAL LEGISLATION

City Council Refused to Accept the Award of the Arbitrators on the Price of the Waterworks

The city council met last evening with the following members present: Chairman Carroll and Councilmen Helveston, Taylor, Weihe, Livingston and Fausett.

Minutes of last meeting and of a special meeting read and approved. Mr. R. L. Anderson was present and addressed the council on the water works purchase proposition. Taylor, at its purchase at the price fixed by the arbitrators.

Mr. Gillespie of the Alabama Paving Company, asked for some changes in method of paving for the Port King paving work for his company, but the council declined to make such changes.

Mr. W. W. Clyatt, city tax collector, addressed the council on the matter of several deficiencies and omissions in the license ordinance. On motion the judiciary committee was asked to meet with Mr. Clyatt, who was familiar with the ordinance, and draft a new ordinance, remedying the deficiencies in the general license ordinance.

Mr. Walter Wells filed a written application for a position on the police force. No action was taken.

Dr. J. E. Chase, in a written communication asked that the owners of Frank's store be required to lay a sidewalk along the south side of that building, where there is no sidewalk and the ground slopes to such an extent that one has to walk in the street. On motion the clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Jeffords, the owner of the property, as well as Mr. Delonch, the owner of the brick warehouse, west of there, that a good and sufficient sidewalk must be laid along the property.

Dr. H. W. Counts, city meat and milk inspector, filed his written report for his first six months of inspection. He found it was entirely disapproved. The dairies serving the city all of which were in excellent condition. He stated that one dairy refused to have its premises and cows inspected, however, and another continued to deliver products in an uncovered wagon. He asked for instructions. The council instructed the city marshal and inspector to enforce the ordinance.

The ordinance requiring the few property owners on Port King avenue who have not already done so, to lay sidewalks and curbing along their property, was placed on its second reading, read by sections, placed on its third reading and read as a whole, and adopted on roll call.

Mr. Fausett introduced an ordinance, which was read and referred to the judiciary committee, requiring all property owners on Broadway or Esplanade street, from the end of the present cement sidewalks to the city limits, to lay good cement sidewalks and curbing, and providing for the city to do such work under competitive bids and accept charges for same against the property, where property owners fail to comply with the provisions of the ordinance.

Mr. Weihe introduced an ordinance providing for the paving with vitrified brick or other suitable paving material of the following streets and parts of streets: Port King avenue from the west side of Main street to the west side of Orange street; that part of Main street beginning at the west side of North Second street to May street; South street from Broadway, from the east side of Osceola street to west side of Walnut street; Osceola street from the north side of Port King avenue to south side of Oklawaha avenue; Oklawaha avenue from the west side of Osceola street to the city limits on the east; south street or Broadway from Orange street to the city limits; that part of North First street adjoining block 58, Old Survey Ocala, on the south; that part of Main street adjoining block 58, Old Survey, on the east; that part of North Second street adjoining block 58 on the north (block 58 is the postoffice building); that part of Oklawaha avenue running west from Magnolia street to Orange street.

Property owners in the second and petitioned that the council have Tascawilla street from South Third street south to 8th street with some of the time being removed from Port King avenue. On motion this was ordered done, if there was enough material left after those streets already petitioned for are paved.

All bills properly approved were ordered paid, except the bill of the city for street lighting and the bill of the Ocala Water Company for the current month.

The city tax books were tendered the council by the city clerk, having been compiled and totaled up in a very neat and accurate manner. They were examined and accepted and the certificates signed. The total assessed personal property is $213,560, and the total assessed real property is $1,227,100. The total assessed dollar value will bring in $28,267.70. This is quite an increase over previous years and does not include license taxes.

The registration books were revised for the four wards of the city and the names of those voters who have died or removed to other places were stricken off and ordered published for thirty days. The second meeting of the council in November, being the first of the year, will be held on the date on which complaints will be heard of any persons whose names may have been erroneously stricken.

In the matter of the petition of E. E. Robinson and others in the northern part of town, filed at a recent meeting of the council, asking to have the water company lay pipes and put in hydrants for fire protection and water service for domestic purposes, the petition was referred to the street committee to investigate and report at the next meeting of the council.
